Net Tangible Asset Values (NTA)

When do I need to announce my NTA?

NTA for the purposes of MAP data entry refers to the Net Tangible Asset per share figure.

When you announce this information depends on the 'type' of issuer you are.

If you are an issuer of equity securities, then you are required to release NTA information with your:

- Preliminary half year results, AND
- Preliminary full year results.

Fund issuers release NTA values more frequently.

Debt only issuers are not required to release NTA information.

When do I need to enter NTA data into MAP?

You must enter NTA data into MAP whenever you announce this figure to the market.

As above, if you are an issuer of equity securities, you will enter this data point when you release your preliminary results.

If you are a Fund Issuer, you will enter this data point whenever you make an announcement advising of a new NTA figure.

- IMPORTANT: all issuers are required to enter this as the dollar value (NOT cents).

What announcement type do I use?

For Issuers of equity securities:

- FLLYR
- HALFYR

For Fund Issuers:

- MKTUPDATE

What data validations are in place

You will receive a warning if the figure you enter differs by more than 10% more from the previous entry. While we are aware that sometimes NTA's do change significantly, this helps us to alert you on the occasion that a typo has occurred or you have entered your figure in cents instead of dollars.

You do have the option to click "I acknowledge the warnings and wish to continue".

Where does my NTA data go?

Your NTA figure feeds through into your fundamentals section on NZX.com.
